- $2 per person per day
- $2 per person per day, with SNAP

Source: Authors' analyses of the 1996 through 2008 Panels of the SIPP. The horizontal axis represents approximate years and months of SIPP 4th reference month estimates. The vertical axis represents households.

How did they end up in $2-a-day poverty?

What were the consequences,
esp. for kids?

What do they do to survive?

Welfare: A Shell of Its Former Self

IN 1994, AFDC SERVED

- 14.2 million people
- 9.6 million children
- 4.6 million adults
- 5.5% of Americans
- Roughly two-thirds of poor families

Welfare: A Shell of Its Former Self

IN 1994, AFDC SERVED

- 14.2 million people
- 9.6 million children
- 4.6 million adults
- 5.5% of Americans
- 68% of poor families

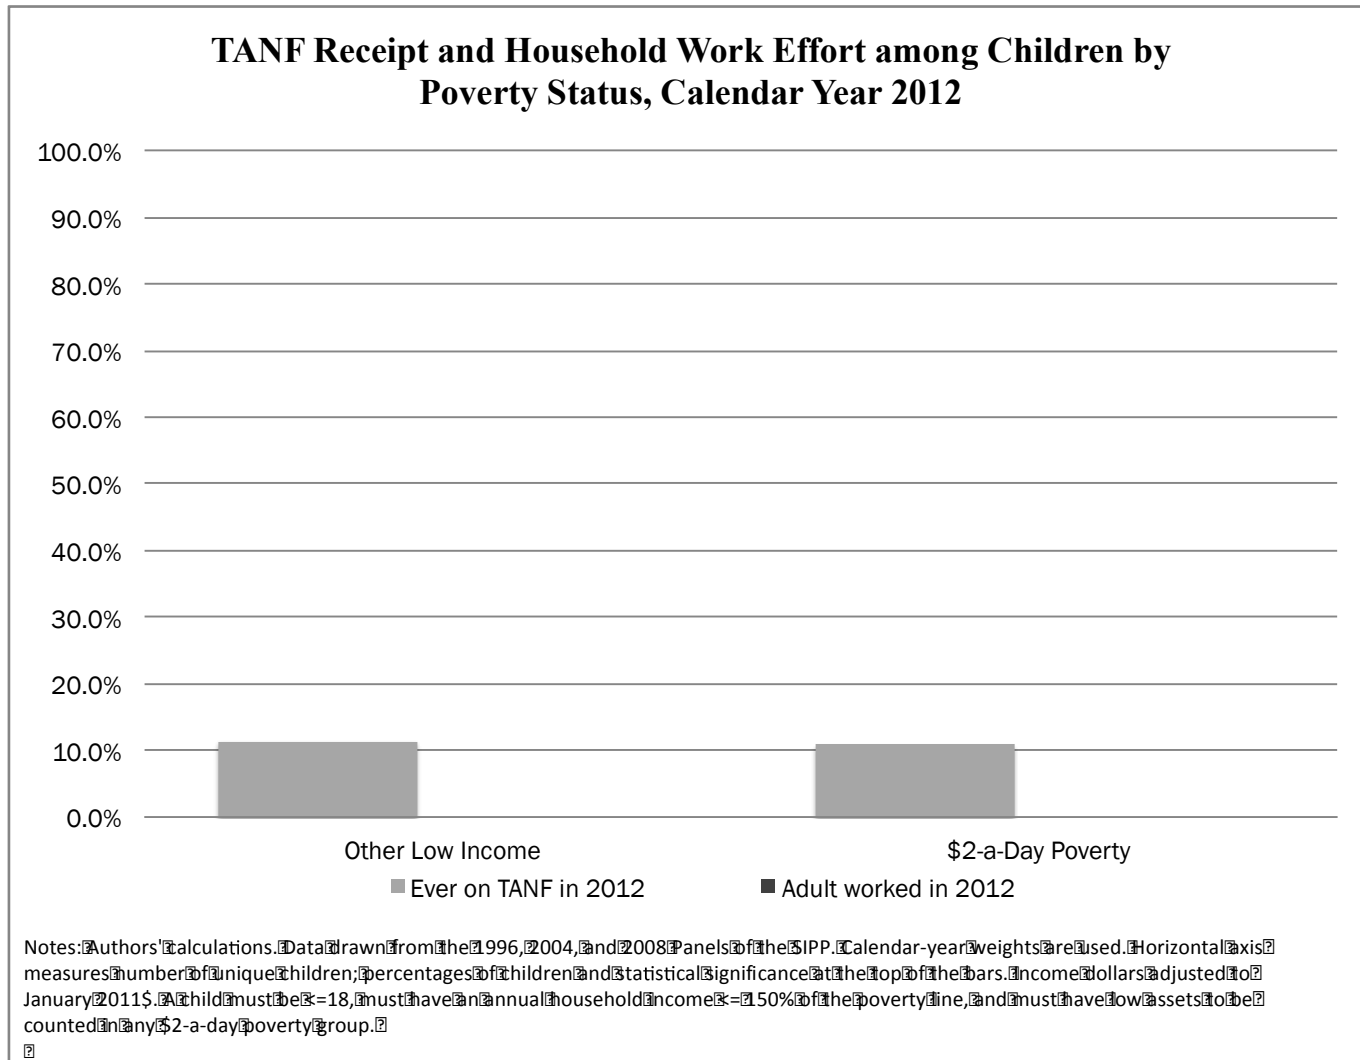

TODAY, TANF SERVES

- 4.1 million people
- 2.9 million children
- 1.1 million adults
- 1.3% of Americans
- 23% of poor families

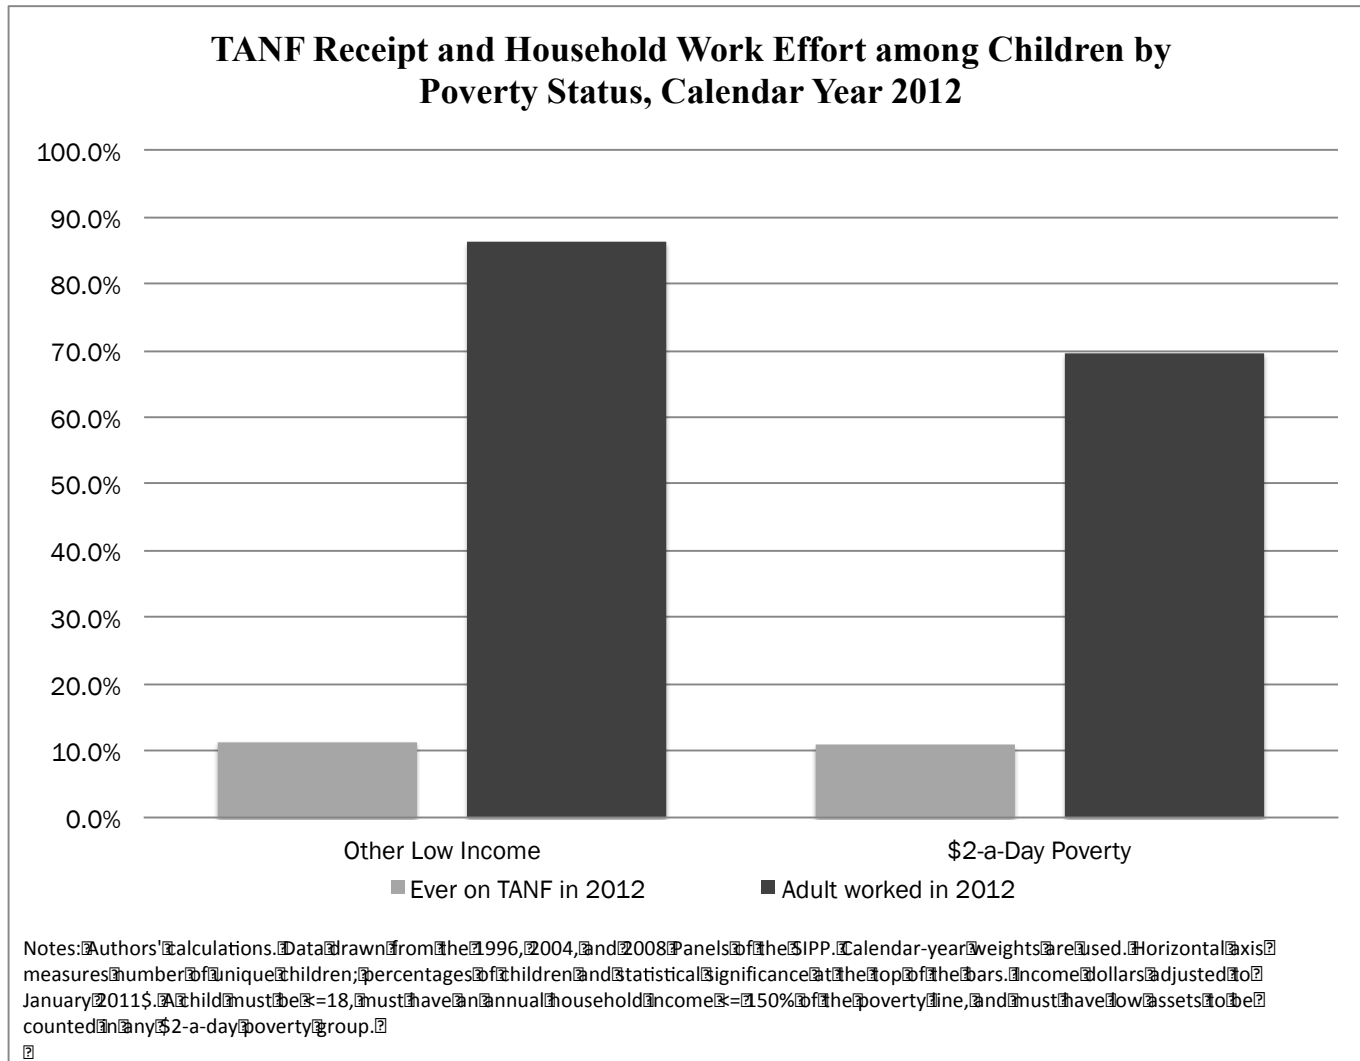

Welfare is Dead

- Modonna Harris (Chicago) has heard that “they just aren’t giving that out anymore”
- Travis Compton (Johnson City, TN), when asked if he would apply for TANF, said “What’s that?”
- Rae McCormick (Cleveland) finally applies and is told, “Honey, I’m sorry. There are just so many needy people, we just don’t have enough to go around.”

Work or Welfare?

Work or Welfare?

Perilous Work

Unstable Jobs

- Unsafe work condition
- Not enough hours
- Work hours fluctuate
- Labor law violations

Unstable Housing/Personal Lives

- Volatile living arrangements
- Family and friends can be unsupportive, and even harmful

A Room of One's Own

- Housing instability is a hallmark of life
- Doubling up can be an important source of support
- But for the $2.00-a-Day poor, it too often ends in sexual, physical, or emotional abuse
- Jennifer Hernandez's 9-year old daughter Kaitlin is molested by her uncle. "I never expected that," Jennifer says
- Rae McCormick: "I've been beat, I've been raped."

The Work of Survival

- Private charity helps, but is not evenly distributed across the country
- It is common to trade SNAP for cash, at 50 to 60 cents on the dollar
- Jessica Compton (Johnson City) donates plasma weekly: “Especially if my iron’s down, I get, like really tired.”
- With the water shut off, Paul Heckewelder (Cleveland) “took the gutter apart, rigged it up over the garbage can” and used rainwater to flush the toilets

What does it feel like to be that hungry?

“Well, actually, it feel like you want to be dead.
Because it’s peaceful being dead.”

The Ultimate Litmus Test

The ultimate litmus test we endorse for any reform is whether it will serve to integrate the poor—particularly the $2-a-day poor—into society, rather than isolate them from it.

- All deserve the opportunity to work
- Parents should be able to raise their children in a place of their own
- Sometimes work won't work, we need a functioning cash safety net
